Typhoon Rips 21 Warships

By LEIF ERICKSON

GUAM, July 13 (AP)—A raging typhoon lashed Adm. William F. (Bull) Halsey's Third Fleet with 138 mile an hour winds June 5, tore the bow off the cruiser Pittsburgh and damaged at least 20 other warships, Adm. Nimitz announced today after virtually every damaged ship was back in action. At least four of the damaged ships—the battleships Massachusetts and Indiana, the carrier San Jacinto, and the destroyer John Rodgers—participated in last Tuesday's 1000-plane carrier strike at Tokyo.

The typhoon damaged more ships than the Japanese Navy has been able to do in action in any single battle. But Nimitz made no mention of anyone being killed or seriously injured. He said no ships were sunk.

He listed 20 damaged ships as repaired and back in action, including three fast new battleships and two Essex class carriers.

The cruiser Pittsburgh, which miraculously stayed afloat, is being refitted for action. Presumably some additional ships, not identified, were damaged and have not returned to sea.

Nimitz said definitely no one was lost from the most heavily damaged ship — the Pittsburgh. Nor was a man on her seriously injured.

The Pittsburgh returned to Guam under her own power for temporary repairs and is now being refitted at another port for return to action.

Although 100 feet of the cruiser's bow was knocked off, she amazingly stayed afloat.

Ships which suffered damage and have returned to action include:

Essex class carriers Hornet and Bennington; battleships Massachusetts, Indiana and Alabama; Independence class cruiser-type carriers San Jacinto and Belleau Wood; destroyers John Rogers and Blue; escort carrier Bougainville.

Three other cruisers and seven destroyers which suffered minor damage also have been repaired and returned to action.

Towering seas crushed 25 feet of the carrier Hornet's flight deck and badly damaged several destroyers, other correspondents reported.

Planes on one small escort carrier "were flipped around like beanbags, tossed into the air end over end and piled in a jumbled heap of wreckage," said Associated Press Correspondent Grant MacDonald. The forward end of her flight deck was ripped up and left dangling over the bow.

The Nimitz announcement did not specify where the typhoon struck the Third Fleet for the second time in six months, but presumably it was in the western Pacific area between Okinawa and the Philippines.

This area is known as the western Pacific typhoon cradle, where unpredictable violent storms zigzag in a generally northerly or northeasterly typhoon path.

Last Dec. 18 a typhoon struck the Third Fleet between the Philippines and the Marianas, and three destroyers capsized and were lost.

Adm. Halsey had taken over the Third Fleet eight days before the second storm broke.

On June 2 and 3, as the storm approached, Halsey's carrier planes swept Kyushu in the last fast carrier force action reported until the July 10 attack on the Tokyo area and nearby airfields.

Presumably Halsey's ships retired to a port in that period for repair and refitting before starting their foray into Honshu waters.

The first sign of this storm was observed June 1 in a weak cyclonic circulation about 250 miles north of the Palaus. Planes were assigned to maintain a careful observation of the disturbance moving northwestward at about 10 knots.

Philippines-based plane crews reported June 3 that the disturbance promised to develop into a typhoon.

During June 4 the storm appeared heading toward the Ryukyus and on the verge of dissipating.

The storm moved on to a point about 300 miles south of Okinawa and broke up.

Nimitz' announcement then explained that in the course of breaking up of the primary ty-

U.S.S. PITTSBURGH LOST BOW IN TYPHOON

Bow Gone, U. S. Cruiser Lives

By ROBBIN COONS

ABOARD USS PITTSBURGH, Guam, June 10 (delayed) (AP)—This heroine of a bloodless sea triumph moved slowly and proudly into port today for repairs—her entire bow ripped off by a thunderous sea in a typhoon southeast of the Ryukus, June 5.

The heavy cruiser came through the ordeal without the loss or injury of any of her more than 1000 men.

The Pittsburgh, only this year added to the Third Fleet, was smashed by a 120-knot wind and made the 900-mile journey to Guam at less than 9 knots, but under her own power.

The storm enveloped her on the morning of June 5, snapping off the ship's sleek nose, 104 feet long, and tossed it aside as though it were a match box. The bow was subsequently recovered and towed to Guam for salvage.

Capt. John E. Gingrich, commanding officer, credited damage control training and the discipline of officers and crew with preventing disaster. If the waves caught the hull broadside in their deep troughs it meant capsizing and certain loss of all lives, as no human could live in those seas.

The Pittsburgh was maneuvered into the deadly calm of the center of the typhoon, then once more was caught in the full fury of its opposite perimeter, with the possibility that the stern also might be carried away.

Ship's repair crews went into action.

For five hours the men fought to hold their balance in four feet of water in the shuddering sealed-off compartments. They sweated, strained and pushed 4x4 shoring timbers into place.

At one point the bulkheads began to bulge inward.

"Men," cried Lt. Calfee," damage control officer, "if we don't get this thing done, and right now, it's curtains!"

They got it done!

There was no panic anywhere on the ship. Some men even slept through the danger.

Jap Cities Seared In Three-Hour Raids

By Associated Press

More than 500 Superforts in their sixth strike this month have set at least four Japanese cities aflame and rained demolition bombs on the Kawasaki oil center in Tokyo bay.

Targets were Tsuruga, western Honshu seaport, Uwajima, interisland port on western Shikoku, Utsunomiya, north of Tokyo, and Ichinomiya, nine miles from Nagoya.

Tokyo radio said the raids lasted three hours.

Naval search planes raided shipping 200 miles north of Tokyo, and Okinawa-based aircraft lashed at suicide air bases 570 miles southwest of the capital.

Japanese interceptors were rarely seen.

Gen. George C. Kenney, Far East Air Force commander, was given command of all Army units hammering Japan.

Chinese troops captured two cities in their drive to recapture the sixth former base of the U. S. 14th Air Force which operates in China.

Australian Ninth Division troops leap-frogged up the northwest coast of Borneo and advanced 10 miles overland to within 30 road miles of the port of Jesselton.

Decreased activity was reported by trapped Japs in Burma.

British War Toll 1,427,634

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—The British Empire suffered 1,427,634 casualties among armed forces and civilians up to June 1, 1945, according to the ministry of information.

Of this total 532,233 are listed as killed or believed dead.

Civilian casualties due to enemy action included 146,760 killed and 60,585 believed killed.

Australia's World War II casualties total 92,211.

Foe Sunk Only 1 in 131 Of British Ships

LONDON, July 13 (AP)—Only one ship out of every 131 that crossed the Atlantic in convoy during the war—and there were 75,000 such crossings—was lost to enemy action, the admiralty reveals.

Typhoon-Lashed 3d Fleet Carrier Repaired at Sea

By JULIAN HARTT

WITH U. S. THIRD FLEET, July 13 (INS)—The carrier Bennington was on the prowl again today—a tribute to resourcefulness of the Pacific Fleet Service, Squadron 10.

I saw the Bennington after she weathered the typhoon, her flight deck smashed and battered down about her bow, like dog-eared book leaves.

Now she is as trim a ship as ever left a builder's ways—without ever leaving the Western Pacific.

The task of slashing away 30 feet of deck and fabricating and installing a new deck was done in less than two weeks by "Parseron Ten," commanded by Com. W. R. Carter, Yarmouth, Me.

This was accomplished without ever bringing the Bennington to pier or drydock.

In direct charge was Lt. Com. V. A. Cowart, San Pedro, Cal.

While workmen cut away wrecked sections and dropped them overboard new sections were prefabricated on the repair ship and on the Bennington's own hangar deck.

Biggest sections were three units making up the rounded leading edge of the flight deck. Each was 33 feet long, 12 square feet in a cross section, and weighing over three tons.

A five-ton crane on the flight deck swung these sections into place, holding them for temporary welds.

Permanent welds later joined the sections and the temporary welds were chipped away. Carpenters then laid the flight deck over the steel—and 12 hours before Adm. Halsey had been promised the ship, he got it.

CAPT. JOHN F. O'CONNELL, JIMMY OSBORN AND GABRIEL FARRELL
Blind 9-Year-Old English Pianist Arrives in New York
International News Soundphoto

Blind Boy, 9, AAF Protege, Lands in N. Y.

Blind Jimmy Osborn, the 9-year-old English boy whose musical talent endeared him to fliers of the Ninth Air Force, arrived by Clipper in New York today in the first step toward a bright future the warm-hearted airmen have planned for him.

He will come to Boston within a few days to enroll at the Perkins Institution for the Blind in Watertown, were he will continue his musical career and receive an academic education.

Arriving at LaGuardia Field aboard the Pan-American clipper from Foynes, Eire, the boy was too weary and excited to talk and his companion, Capt. John F. O'Connell, Taylor st., Holyoke, Ninth Air Force public relations officer and one of his self-appointed foster parents, took over.

"We first heard about Jimmy when we were stationed at Essex," Capt. O'Connell said, "so we brought him over to the base to play for the boys. They went wild over him. He can play anything—from classical to boogie woogie—although he's had no formal musical education.

"He played a lot for the boys in the hospitals, too, and they looked forward to his visits because his ability, despite the affliction, helped their morale.

"He enjoyed the trip over and his biggest thrill came when he was allowed to sit for a time at the clipper's controls."

Waiting at the airport to greet them was Dr. Gabriel Farrell, head of the Perkins Institution, who co-operated on this side with Capt. O'Connor in helping the fliers, who had raised $3200 for the project, to accomplish their plans for an American musical and academic education for their protege.

"We are taking Jimmy to our school at the request of the men of the Ninth Air Force," Dr. Farrell said. "If they have sufficient interest in him and believe in his future, the least we can do is co-operate in their plans for him."

Also waiting to greet the pair at the airport were O'Connell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George O'Connell, of Holyoke, and his sister, Gertrude, who had not seen him in three years.

Jimmy was dressed in a blue school suit with short trousers and socks. He was wearing pilot's wings, Ninth Air Force insignia and various campaign ribbons given him as farewell gifts by his flier friends.

"He's thrilled at the thought of his opportunuity to advance his musical stsudies in America," Capt. O'Connenll said.

"He heard a lot about the country from Alec Templeton, the blind pianist, whom he met recently in London and has been looking forward ever since to getting here.

"He's an amazing boy. He never had a piano lesson and ye he can play anything after listening to the music on the phonograph or radio. He's even dor some composing and arrangir and our Air Force boys are sur he has a brilliant future ahead c him."

Capt. O'Connell said the boy' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Os born, were in hearty approval o the Air Force arrangements fo their son's education. They hope to come to this country themselves when transportation is available.

Blind since birth, Jimmy has had little formal schooling and for the past two years has been taught by a tutor.

Hub OKs Pinballs For Dry Resorts

Pinball machines, which Cambridge Police Chief Timothy Leahy ordered removed from all stores, restaurants and cafes in that city, may be operated anywhere in Boston except where alcoholic beverages are sold, police officials said today.

Boston officials based this on an Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission ruling, confirmed by the governor and council.

Chief Leahy's action resulted from a superior court decision that a Cambridge city ordinance banning the machines was enforceable.

Baby Boy Helps Ma Paint House

Available manpower for household duties has dropped to a new low in Medford. When Robert C. Bachelder of Fells ave. took off for boot training in the Navy, the task of painting his home fell to his two-year-old son David.

David was forcibly dissuaded by his mother, Mrs. Shirley Bachelder, who mixed up the first batch of paint July 2 and started to slap it on.

By the first of September, she said, the job should be completed, with two coats of white on the house. With the help of David, she added. He holds the ladder.

Always allergic to such things as dishpans, dust mops and brooms, Mrs. Bachelder would rather spend the summer going over the two-story, five-room house with a paint brush.

Even climbing to the top of a 20-foot ladder to paint under the eaves holds no terrors for her —so long as David is holding the ladder.

Not only will she have her own home painted but she may pick up a little work on the side. Many passersby have stopped to compliment her on progress and dicker for a price on doing their own homes.

"On the other hand," she said, "there is a full time job here. A little carpentry work here and there wouldn't hurt the place at all—in fact, it would be a decided improvement.

"I'm not allergic to hammers, saws or nails," she continued, "so I guess I'm elected. Anyway, it's a lot of fun."

She and David are up at dawn each morning and work until the afternoon when David retires for a nap before going at it again.

Marlene in N. Y. After USO Tour

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Marlene Dietrich, tireless entertainer of GI's, arrived here today from Paris after an 11 months' USO tour of Europe.

As she stepped from the plane, the 40-year-old actress saw her husband, Rudolph E. Sieber, and dropped her luggage in her rush to greet him.

Customs officials temporarily confiscated several souvenirs of her tour —two Luger pistols and three other German guns.

Miss Dietrich said her plans included "a complete overhauling," and a trip to Hollywood next week.

GI's Copy Reds, Pal With Cafe Frauleins

By DANIEL DE LUCE

BERLIN, July 13 (AP)—To the great relief of GI Joe and Tommy Atkins, when you're in Berlin you do as the Russions do.

American and British troops in the German capital—most of whom are fed up with the non-graternization policy in force in western Germany—are copying the friendly ways of the Red Army.

The generals may say nothing has been changed in the rule book but things seem to be different.

Ivanovich—the Red Army euivalent of GI Joe—operates on the understanding that he's not supposed to take dyed-in-the-wool Nazis to his bosom. But he believes Germans who are not Nazis are entitled to be treated without race hatred.

Therefore, Ivan feels free to drop into a cafe, strike up an acquaintance with any German girl and invite her to dance and drink with him.

In the past week American and British troops also have been crowding night spots favored by the Russians.

British, Canadian and American military police—operating in teams—try to discourage public dancing by troops of the western allies along bright-light avenues.

"Take it easy, soldier," was their cautionary advice. "You can sit it out with a girl but don't get up and dance until nonfrat is lifted."

Most of the soldiers accepted it good-humoredly.

Military police say it would be impossible to convince GI's and Tommies that what is right for the Red army is wrong for them, and they are hoping there will be a definite clarification of the situation soon.

Meanwhile, the MP's aren't raiding any German homes here. If a family invites you in to listen to the radio and have a cup of Ersatz tea, the MP's look the other way.

And you can stroll along residential streets with a fraulein—if you don't hold hands.

What, No Beans!

The Pilot Demands Curb On Soviet Insults to U. S.

Replying to Russian attacks on the Catholic press of America, The Pilot, official organ of the Boston archdiocese, today editorially called for an end to the Soviet "insults" to American institutions and personalities.

Mentioning specifically the charge by Pravda, official Communist newspaper, that the Commonweal and the Catholic World were outstanding examples of "the war-mongering Catholic press," the Pilot declared:

"There isn't a Catholic editor in this country who wouldn't prize this abuse in view of the source from which it comes."

Outlining a "fifty-fifty" basis for peace between the Russian and Catholic press, the Pilot offered to "say nothing unkind" about Russia provided:

"Stalin must suppress The Daily Worker or allow us to set up an American newspaper in Moscow which will reveal to the narcotized proletarians of that state that they are poorer paid, worse clothed and more atrociously underfed than the Jeeter Lesters of 'Tobacco Road.'

"That Stalin tell Browder and the rest of the Communist claque to stop talking and writing, to cease their infiltration into American labor unons."

Defending the Catholic press, the editorial said the papers "have told the truth as they see it."

"On the whole, conceding that Russia fought well in this war, the Russian record is not good—why insult the intelligence of our people by pretending otherwise?"

Mrs. F. D.'s Tax Probe Ordered By House Group

WASHINGTON, July 13 (INS)—The House Ways and Means Committee was reported today to have secretly directed Internal Revenue agents to examine the income tax returns of Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and Col. James Roosevelt.

Financial activities of Brig. Gen. Elliott Roosevelt already are in the government spotlight.

The investigation centers around a loan of $200,000 said to have been made in 1939 to the son of the late President by John Hartford, president of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. The loan is said to have been settled in 1942 for $4000.

The Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Co. also figured in Mrs. Roosevelt's income, it was said. Her income for articles published by by the company between August, 1938 and February, 1941, reportedly brought the ex-First Lady $3750.

Mrs. Roosevelt's income from a daily column, articles and lectures were estimated by one source to have topped the $75,000 her husband received as president.

A Ways and Means Committee member declared that broadening of the Treasury inquiry to include the financial transactions of Col. Roosevelt was expected to turn up jolting revelations.

Winter Food Famine Feared in Germany

Green, Murray Ask Charter OK

WASHINGTON, July 13 (INS)—Labor leaders William Green and Philip Murray today joined John Foster Dulles, veteran international lawyer and treaty adviser, in urging immediate Senate ratification of the Unted Natons charter to outlaw war.

Green, president of the AFL, told the Senate Foreign eRlations Committee that American wage earners "are against war as a political instrumentality and believe that armed force is a last resort, and then only under control of an impartial agency."

Murray, CIO leader, filed a statement in support of the charter, calling for "early and overwhelming" approval, asserting that reservations or limitations of any description "must be understood as simply an attempt to defeat its enactment."

Dulles, chief legal adviser to the American delegation at the San Francisco Conference, told the committee in a prepared statement that "the document before you charts a path which we can follow joyfully and without fear."

Senate Cuts Port Cash to 5 Millions

The Boston Port Authority bill will come before the Senate again today, accompanied by an urgent request that the upper branch recede from its stand in favor of a straight $15,000,000, and accept the compromise House plan for $5,000,000 this year and $10,000,000 next year.

The compromise measure, reported by a conference committee of House and Senate members, was approved by the House on a voice vote. Up to the present time the Senate has insisted that the entire $15,000,000 be made immediately available to the new Port Authority.

The first task of the new Port Authority will be to investigate provisions of a bill calling for constructions of two new State piers, one in East Boston, and the other in South Boston. This bill has been favorably reported by the House ways and means committee.

Also favorably reported was a bill providing for the zoning for maritime use of certain territory bordering on the harbor.

Speaker Frederick B. Willis said today he expected the Senate to accept the House-approved compromise bill limiting immediate expenditures to $5,000,000.

BULLETIN

The Senate by voice vote today accepted the conference committee recommendation on the Boston Port Authority limiting immediate expenditures to $5,000,000.

OPA Promises Cheaper Bananas

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The OPA today promised consumers a substantial saving in fixing lower price ceilings for some Mexican bananas.

The agency established a flat ceiling of $3.50 a hundred pounds at points of entry for all such fruit, effective July 18. This reduces by $1 the ceiling for bananas grown in the Mexican states of Chiapas and Tabasco, and boosts the top price for all other Mexican bananas 25 cents.

OPA said imports of Mexican bananas are about evenly divided in volume between those grown in Chiapas and Tabasco and those produced in other parts of the country.

Job Jumpers Given Respite

WASHINGTON, July 13 (INS)—Selective Service disclosed that local draft boards have been ordered to discontinue the induction of job jumpers from 26 to 38 who fail to meet Army physical standards.

Men 18 through 25 who leave essential jobs without draft board permission and are sub-par physically will continue to be inducted into the Army for limited service.

Price Rule End Studied for Many Articles

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—An OPA blueprint for the first step toward lifting price controls is being studied by Stabilization Director William H. Davis. In preparation several months, the plan sets up standards which would permit immediate elimination of ceilings on a number of commodities. Others would be freed as certain conditions were met.

Officials familiar with the proposal, which requires Davis' approval before it can be put into effect, said it provides for removal or suspension of price controls on these grounds:

1—Where a commodity is in sufficient supply to eliminate danger of inflationary prices. In general this would cover items selling substantially under the ceiling.

2—If an article is of small importance to the civilian economy, or the maintenance of ceilings is an administrative job out of proportion to the effect a higher price would have on the cost of living.

While the plan sets forth no specific items which might qualify, an OPA official predicted that a very large number probably would fit the pattern.

Under the first standard aluminum, was mentioned as one of the first raw materials that might be removed from controls, with products made from that metal following as supply caught up with demand.

Under the second, immediate release from ceilings might be ordered for jewelry, for example, or for such beverages as rum, brandy and cordials.

A spokesman for Davis' office said there was no indication yet whether Davis will approve the formula as it stands or make changes.

Adoption of OPA's selective price control system would reverse the course followed when the first steps to harness inflation were taken before the war.

Paper Strikers Face Jobs Loss

NEW YORK, July 13 (INS)—The Newspaper Publishers Ass'n today called on striking delivery men to return to work at once or face immediate dismissal from their jobs.

Charging that the Independent Mail and Deliverymen's Union, whose strike against 14 New York newspapers is in its 13th day, has "misled and badly advised" its members, the publishers said:

"Unless the men return to work at once, the publishers are clearly at liberty to terminate employment of the union members."

Late yesterday a War Labor Board directive abrogated the union's contract with the publishers.

The publishers did not indicate how they would move to break the walkout. Under the WLB ruling they can negotiate with another union or hire non-union workers.

List of Don'ts For Today Only

There are plenty of "don'ts" to be remembered today, but the principal one is—don't forget it's Friday the 13th.

So, don't break a mirror, don't walk under a ladder, don't cross the street if there's a black cat in sight, don't pick up a pin that points toward you, don't put your right foot on the brass rail and don't clink the cannikin if it's empty. You can probably think of a score of other don'ts.

But it's a lucky day for two Cape Codders who are observing their 102d birthday anniversaries. They are Mrs. Laura J. Dunbar of Highland ave., Onset, and Albert H. Ellis of West Harwich.

Imogene Gets Bail, On Trip With Hubby

BRIDGEPORT, Ct., July 13—Her 20-day jail stay ended, beautiful Imogene Stevens today was whisked away for a vacation and rest from the trying aftermath to the shooting of 19-year-old Albert Kovacs.

Surety bail of $15,000 was furnished by a life insurance company at the behest of her husband, Maj. George R. Stevens, 3d, after the latter's wealthy father first had promised $25,000 bonds and then withdrew the offer.

This followed a report, made by Coroner Theodore Steiber, which accused Imogene of having illicit relations with Charles Milton, her next door neighbor, in whose home Kovacs was slain.

Buj Maj. Stevens has ridiculed the allegation his wife was untrue while he was making paratroop leaps in France and Germany. He flew home to be at her side.

It was Stevens who took her into seclusion today after the couple earlier had signed papers and walked arm in arm from the courthouse. Neither he nor she would make any statement, but they indicated they would drop out of sight completely for the next 30 days of his furlough.

U. S. Tax Probe Hits N. E. Firms

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—The further the Treasury Department's drive against alleged tax evaders goes, says Secretary Morgenthau, "the more shocking it becomes."

Latest cases under investigation by Treasury agents include those of a manufacturer making jewelry boxes for Purple Heart medals and a firm of war contractors in Wisconsin.

Morgenthau said the jewelry manufacturer has concealed sales amounting to at least $80,000 in filing income tax returns.

The Secretary also said a number of jewelry firms in New England have made voluntary disclosures of unpaid taxes.

The Wisconsin case involves several million dollars in unreported income.

Fake Bond Aide Held in Theft

A Brookline man who posed as a volunteer salesman in the Seventh War Loan drive today was accused of larceny of $3750 from a Boston attorney and using part of the money to pay gambling debts.

Police said the fake solicitor told Atty. Adolphus Burroughs, Devonshire st., he was working for the war bond drive and collected a check for $3750 from the lawyer in payment for a bond.

The check was deposited in a Lynn bank, police said, and withdrawals of $1900 were made. The suspect told police he paid bookies with the money "because I was in a bad way."

Restaurants, cafes and stores in Cambridge today began removing all pinball machines on orders of Police Chief Timothy Leahy.

He based his action on a recent test case in superior court where it was decided that a Cambridge ordinance banning installation of such machines is enforceable.

Although he never could be President, Natale Piavello, 9, bright-as-a-dollar Italian youngster whom GIs smuggled home from the wars, could become most anything else in this great America of opportunity if only he could become a citizen.

And it looked today as if the little war orphan likely will get that chance through intercession of Cong. Thomas J. Lane of Lawrence and a sympathetic Congress.

Cong. Lane already has a bill before Congress to legalize the lad's entry—made via a soldier's duffle bag—and there are offers galore for his adoption.

Col. Earl L. Lerett of Thorndike st., Brookline, commanding officer of the 121st Infantry, declared a New Jersey soldier wants to adopt Natale, better known to soldier pals as "Chris."

And the way Chris begged for a furlough to New Jersey, it looked as if the New Jersey GI is the soldier who carried that duffle bag aboard ship at Le Havre, France.

Capt. Peter Wiktor, chaplain, and former curate at St. Mary's Church, North End, indicated the Franciscan Order would be glad to arrange for the boy's bringing up and education. Other calls came in—one from Hartford—from people who have read about the little war waif and want him for their own.

Introducing his bill, Cong. Lane said he feels "this case warrants the serious consideration of the members of the House" because of "the extenuating circumstances and especially since this boy is homeless, without any friends or relatives abroad, and since his soldier pals are anxious to adopt him." Lane said he discussed the situation with Chairman Dickstein of the House immigration and naturalization committee, who promised immediate consideration by the committee.

SHANGRI-LA WAC ADMIRES GIFT—A bouquet is received by WAC Cpl. Margaret Hastings, of Oswego, N. Y., on her arrival in New York city where she is resting for a few days following her arrival from Dutch New Guinea where she survived an airplane crash in a hidden valley. Int'l News Photo

Cambridge GI Wins Bronze Star

Word has been received by Mr. and Mrs. Natale Paglierani of 70 Washington st., Cambridge, that the Bronze Star has been awarded their son, Sgt. Dino Paglierani, 32, for meritorious service in guarding and evacuating German prisoners of war under the most adverse battle and weather conditions. Previously he had received a Presidential Citation and the Good Conduct Medal.

Sgt. Dino Paglierani

Paglierani, attached to the 25th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron Mechanized of the 4th Armored Division, has been in the Army for 42 months, including 19 in England, Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Germany and Czechoslovakia.

Leukemia Dooms Worcester Boy, 2

WORCESTER, July 13—Doomed by physicians to die from leukemia in 30 to 90 days, two-year-old Richard Sullivan romps gaily about the yard of his home unaware of his fate, while his distracted mother, Mrs. Richard J. Sullivan, prays for a miracle.

"He's strong," the mother says. "He laughs and plays and enjoys eating. If only somewhere there is something that would help him, we would never ask for anything else."

According to Dr. Walter M. Mulvihill, local specialist, the boy is the youngest sufferer from the disease ever encountered.

CHICAGO GAMBLER SLAIN

CHICAGO, July 13 (INS)—Maurice Margolis, 30, Chicago gambler, was found shot to death today. His body was slumped over the steering wheel of an automobile on a Chicago street. He had been questioned recently in connection with black market meat traffic.

Broker's Death Checked

Police filled in part of a 12-hour time lapse yesterday in their probe of the circumstances surrounding the death of Earle B. Goldsmith, 47, Winchester, former athlete and insurance broker.

Lt. Frank Wilson said investigators had traced Goldsmith's movements from the time he arrived in Boston from Durham, N. H., at 3:30 p. m. last Friday until 7:30 p. m. that evening.

Before his death Wednesday at Massachusetts General Hospital from a broken neck, the victim told police he had been in a Billerica st. drinking place but officers found the place was on Howard st. and that Goldsmith had been there until 7:30 p. m.

Employes said he had a few drinks and had cashed a check for $10. When he left, they said, he announced he was going to rent a room.

Goldsmith was found unconscious early Saturday in a Nashua st. parking lot.

BEAUTY SUES—Sari Gabor Hilton, "Miss Hungary of 1936," in New York asked for a court order directing her former lawyers to return jewelry and furs valued at 100,000. She charges she was held prisoner for seven weeks.

Witness Missing In Will Fight

BROCKTON, July 13—Search was begun today for Miss Bertha Emery, a nurse and important witness in a Probate Court fight over the $250,000 cranberry fortune of the late Mrs. Anna Elizabeth Smith of Onset.

Judge Harry K. Stone was told the nurse, a witness to the signing of the will, has not been at her home in Huntington ave., Boston, for six weeks.

It was charged that Miss Emery once stated Mrs. Smith thought she was signing an OPA declaration when she signed the codicil. The charges were brought by Atty. Edward G. Fisher, counsel for Principio, a midwestern college, named beneficiary in the first will. The second codicil revoked the gift.

Eric Johnston Weighs Big Job in Movies

HOLLYWOOD, July 13 (AP)—Eric Johnston, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, says he may take an executive position with the movies.

Johnston told interviewers he had been offered Will Hays' job as president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Ass'n. "I'm not after Hays' job," said the Chamber president. "I have something different in mind—it might be a combination with the independents but I'm just thinking it over."

Would Modify Death Sentences of 2 GIs

CHUNGKING, July 13 (AP)—Maj. Gen. Henry S. Aurand has recommended that the death sentences of two American privates, accused of killing a Chinese grandmother in a dispute over a water buffalo, be commuted to 20 years at hard labor. The men are John V. Brennan, West Hartford, Ct., and James F. Cooper, Norwood, O.

Gen. Aurand also recommended the men be dishonorably discharged and forfeit all pay and allowances.

LEHMAN IN BUCHAREST

LONDON, July 13 (INS)—The Moscow radio announced that Herbert Lehman, UNRRA director, had arrived in Bucharest, Romanian capital.

Gunman Wounds Italian Archbishop

VATICAN CITY, July 13 (INS)—The Vatican announced that Msgr. C. D. Peruzzo, Archbishop of Agrigento in Sicily, had been shot and dangerously wounded by an unidentified assailant.

Police immediately started an investigation of the act which has aroused local and Vatican indignation.

Rise Predicted In Old Age List

With passage by the House of the modified Old Age Assistance bill to a third reading, Rep. John E. Powers (D.) of Boston predicted today that 7000 additional applicants would be added to the rolls and that average monthly payments would rise from $42 to $48.

Powers said the law exempts 75 per cent of those contributing to the support of parents. "There are roughly 20,000 children contributing to the support of their parents and this bill will cut the number down to about 6000," he said. "The added cost will run to about $8,000,000 and the state will pay $3,000,000 of this sum."

The House killed an amendment by Rep. Adolph Johnson (R.) of Brockton for a substitute bill which would wipe out the "support your parents" clause in the act.

Veterans' Friend

By JAMES F. McENANEY

Q—I have a son discharged from the service, about six months ago, after serving more than two years. Thus far he has not received his mustering-out pay or back pay due him. Because of a nervous condition I have not bothered to ask him to make inquiries about it, but was told if he waits too long he will not receive this money. E. J. H., Boston.

A—Suggest that you have son write immediately finance officer at the post or installation where he was discharged from and explain failure to receive money due him, also mustering-out pay. Give serial number, organization attached to and date of discharge.

Q—I receive family allowance for myself and three children, but I am not able to pay all of my expenses with it. I have a doctor and hospital bill to pay, besides a private loan. Is there any way in which the allowance can be increased? J. W., Somerville.

A—The amount of family allowance for wife and three children of a soldier is $120 a month. This is the maximum and there is no way in which it can be increased. It is suggested that you contact your local Red Cross Chapter for assistance with your hospital and doctor bills, and also contact the Soldier's Relief representative in your town hall for information as to whether they can supplement your family allowance by any amount for a period of time.

Q—Subsequent to my induction, I placed goods in a pawn shop. Does the Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act of 1940 protect me if I cannot redeem my pledge at the proper time? E. M. M., Hartford, Ct.

A—No. The Soldiers' and Sailors' Civil Relief Act applies to those liabilities incurred prior to induction.

FALSE TEETH That Loosen Need Not Embarrass

Many wearers of false teeth have suffered real embarrassment because their plate dropped, slipped or wabbled at just the wrong time. Do not live in fear of this happening to you. Just sprinkle a little FASTEETH, the alkaline (non-acid) powder, on your plates. Holds false teeth more firmly, so they feel more comfortable. Does not sour. Checks "plate odor" (denture breath). Get FASTEETH at any drug store.

Canada's Menus, Prices Stir Envy in Hub

Boston restaurant patrons—many of them forced to eat out because of continuing food shortages or lack of ration points—are entitled to squawk as loudly as retail market shoppers when they find out how their lot compares with that of Canadians.

Their complaints could be based very easily on the profusion of steaks, chops, turkey and all varieties of meat and fish on the restaurant menus of such cities as Toronto and Montreal, compared with the few scant items most Boston restaurants can offer.

But they could complain just as loudly at the comparison with prices paid by diners-out in Canada.

Even in the swank dining rooms and night clubs of the two Canadian cities, the highest priced meal costs little more than the average Bostonian plays for a meal in an ordinary downtown restaurant of the better grade.

This does not take into consideration the fact that most, if not all, Boston eating places have reduced their portions considerably in doling out meat and vegetables while in Canada the portions are just as liberal as in pre-war days.

In addition, virtually every Boston restaurant now offers its patrons cottage cheese or jelly as a substitute for butter. The few which still serve butter offer a reduced portion.

But in Canada, regardless of the restaurant, every patron is given a full pat of butter with each serving, and second and third helpings are furnished readily.

A survey of the leading restaurants of the two Canadian cities and a comparison of their menus and prices with those of a number of downtown Boston eating places presents some interesting facts.

First of all, it should be remembered that items appearing on a menu in a Canadian restaurant are available and in quantity.

On the other hand, many Boston restaurant menus list various articles but patrons are informed that none is available when they request a serving, as many have learned when they sought steak or chops.

Canadian restaurant prices, too, are for a full course dinner, compared to Boston where the price is for the steak, chop or other item, without including the soup, salad, dessert or beverage.

Here are some of them:

	Canada	U. S.
Fillet mignon	$1.25	$1.75
Sirloin steak	.90	1.50
Broiled pork chop	.60	.75
Lamb chop, mixed grill	.75	1.00
Fried half chicken	.90	1.25
Boiled dinner	.50	.75
Hot sandwiches	.30	.50
Broiled mackerel	.55	.65
Halibut	.65	.75
Business men's lunch	.40	.75

Even in the most expensive night clubs and hotel dining rooms, the top price for a dinner in Canada is $2 while many of them receive only $1.50 to $1.65.

Boston eating places, of course, are operating under OPA ceiling prices which were set when food prices were at unusually high levels.

Paper, Tin Drive Starts Monday

Boston's big waste paper and scrap tin salvage drive, which starts Monday in Wards 1 through 5, will inaugurate a series of drives in Greater Boston during the second half of July.

Urging householders to add every single tin can to their salvage piles, the War Production Board predicted that if the automobile, refrigerator and washing machine industries were allowed to use tin freely, the supply would be wiped out in a short time.

R. G. Waters, Jr., executive-secretary of the state salvage committee, announced the following collections for next week:

Monday—Boston (Wards 1-5), Dedham, Weston, Waltham (North of Main st.)

Tuesday—Boston (Wards 6-10), Waltham (South of Main street to Charles River).

Wednesday—Boston (Wards 11-14), Winchester, Waltham (South side of Charles River)

Thursday—Boston (Wards 15-18), Winchester

Friday—Boston (Wards 19 20).

Lack of Sugar To Cut Beverages

Sugar ration cuts for manufacturers will seriously curtail soft drink supplies for hospitals, war plants and general civilian outlets, it was announced by Joseph W. Milner, president of the American Bottlers of Carbonated Beverages.

Only the armed services will obtain their full requirements.

New England grocers were warned not to accept five-pound home canning sugar stamps unless endorsed with the consumer's name and War Book Four serial number. Unendorsed stamps will be charged against the grocer as invalid, OPA said.

Legion Fights Luxury For Jap Diplomats

McCONNELLSBURG, Pa., July 13 (AP)—The American Legion has protested use of Bedford Springs Hotel, Bedford, Pa., to house Japanese diplomats captured in Berlin.

Such treatment, James L. Gatkins, commander of the McConnellsburg Legion Post, said, is the reverse of the treatment given American prisoners of war.

Clipper Crash Girl Due Home

America's number one U.S.O. trouper has arrived back in New York.

After two and a half years which started with the Lisbon Clipper crash and ended with Paris and the Riviera Grace Drysdale, a slender, pretty brunette with a special act all her own, is headed for her old home at 57 Cedar st., Cambridge.

Grace Drysdale

"But that will just be a stopover," she said today in New York hotel suite where she is taking time out to gather in some loose ends. "I've asked them to send me overseas again—and I'm going in September."

Miss Drysdale used to be a bookkeeper in the University city. But she tired of deskwork and decided to switch over to "finger dancing," which consists of placing a "sleeve-length" puppet over the fingers of each hand and manipulating them so that they form a dancing team. Miss Drysdale has a specialty constructed stage which is so built that only the puppets are visible while the act is going on.

Miss Drysdale was one of the 13 lucky survivors of the crash of the Yankee Clipper in Portugal in February, 1943.

Typhoon

phoon it was replaced by a second and more violent one.

In characteristically unpredictable western Pacific storm performance, this second typhoon separated from the original disturbance and was moving rapidly northeastward.

The storm hit the Third Fleet ships the morning of June 5. Between 4 and 6 A. M. the wind velocity reached 90 to 120 knots. The ships pitched and plunged in mountainous seas.

The storm passed directly over a portion of the fleet.

Pacific fleet aerologists said the center of the typhoon was unusually small with a radius of about 60 miles. They also reported that the "eye" of the storm — where there's no wind—was about 30 miles in diameter.

These dead-center "eyes" occasionally range up to 100 miles across.

After sweeping over the Third Fleet, the typhoon gained momentum proceeding northeastward at about 30 knots and passing between Iwo Jima and Japan.

When the storm abated, R. Adm. J. J. (Jocko) Clark, on the carrier Hornet, was called on to send out planes on a mercy search for five small ships and two hospital ships driven from their course in the storm.

The ships were found to be safe.

But in order to get the planes off for the search, the Hornet performed one of the war's weirdest feats in improvization and seamanship. This happened after one plane attempting a normal takeoff over the bow was caught in the updraft and spun into the water. The pilot was rescued. Clark decided to send planes off the carrier's stern.

The engineers put the carrier in reverse. The great ship backed up until the wind speed was safe for backward takeoffs. Sea repairs were soon completed on the bow and the normal takeoffs were resumed.

2 of Damaged Ships Were Built at Quincy

The USS Massachusetts, one of the biggest battleships afloat, affectionately known to her crew as "Big Mamie," was built at the Bethlehem-Quincy shipyards and commissioned May 12, 1942.

Only 60 days later she had her baptism of fire at Casablanca, where the French fleet tried to interfere with our landings.

Early in 1943 she was ordered to the Pacific. Her first action there was in the New Georgia campaign and later she took part in destruction of the Japanese installations on Nauru Island.

Next came Kwajalein and other spots in the Marshall Islands, where her accurate fire silenced almost immediately Jap gun emplacements.

The USS Pittsburgh, a heavy cruiser, also was built at Bethlehem-Quincy, being commissioned Oct. 10, 1944. She, too, is one of the mightiest of her type, displacing 13,000 tons and carrying nine eight inch guns.

The U.S.S. Alabama, a 35,000-toner, was launched at Portsmouth, Va., nine months ahead of schedule in February, 1942, and has speed in excess of 27 knots an hour. She carries nine 16-inch guns mounted in three turrets and the latest anti-aircraft and secondary broadside guns.

Major Found Guilty In Army Bootlegging

MARYSVILLE, Cal., July 13 (AP)—A court martial convicted Maj. Harry E. Roy, 57, a veteran of 30 years Army service, on 16 of 24 counts that he sold liquor at Camp Beale.

He was sentenced to forfeit $200 a month of his pay for 20 months, and was saved from dismissal by aquittal on charges pertaining to conduct unbecoming an officer and a gentleman.

Sugar and victory

V-E Day has passed. But V-J Day is still ahead. The need for sugar . . . that indispensable energy food . . . continues to be in heavy demand.

At the direction of the Government supplies are moving at an increased rate to our armed forces, our allies, and to help in feeding people in liberated lands.

Due to a prolonged drought in Cuba, stocks of raw cane sugar from the Caribbean area, which serves our Atlantic Coast and Gulf refineries, are off greatly in volume.

These are some of the reasons why our Government has placed tighter rationing restrictions on household and on institutional and industrial users of refined sugar.

We have learned to accept wartime shortages all along the line. Use your sugar stamps, but use them wisely . . . and make a little do a lot.

U. S. Job Advances Denied to Veterans

By KENT HUNTER

Boston Evening American Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON, July 13—Juggling of civil service rated promotions in government jobs has left the World War veteran who went into uniform from civil service out in the cold so far as postwar promotion is concerned.

The career men and women in Civil Service have been given the least of Civil Service promotion while the new help have been placed in war agency jobs carrying from 11.8 per cent to 68.2 per cent increase over their initial base pay, in some shops.

Rep. Edward H. Rees, ranking minority member of the House Civil Service Committee, made these charges, among others, and wound up with a demand that President Truman take steps to consolidate Civil Service on a functional basis and that an outstanding veteran be named as one of the three national Civil Service Commissioners, as a guarantee that the rights of veterans will be safeguarded "as far as can be done after five years of bungling."

"Recently a survey was made," Rees said, "by selecting at random a sample of about 260,000 federal classified employes (about 20 per cent of the total) from 20 federal departments and agencies.

"Between December, 1940, and March, 1945, that portion of these employes working in the Foreign Economic Administration received an aggregate base salary increase of 68.2 per cent.

"During the same period the aggregate base salary increases of that portion of the surveyed employes in other agencies are as follows:

*Navy Department	47.8%
*Office of Defense Transportation	53.1%
Office of Price Administration	62.5%
Smaller War Plants	67.7%
War Department	47.4%
War Production Board	61.5%
Agriculture Department	27.7%
Commerce Department	24.7%
Interior Department	24.9%
Justice Department	25.7%
Department of Labor	33.9%
Patent Bureau	24.9%
General Accounting Office	24.4%
Interstate Commerce Commission	11.8%
Public Buildings Administration	19.4%
*Railroad Retirement Board	36.1%
*Social Security Board	38.2%
*Veterans Administration	19.0%
*Civil Service Commission	35.0%

"Salary provisions in the federal government during the war period have been out of all proportion to reason. Employes of the old departments have suffered while those in the newer war agencies have benefitted.

"There are some 18,000 kinds of jobs classified in classified Civil Service but the Civil Service Commission promulgated classification standards for only 78, letting the various departments make promotional classifications."

Don't Pick Cucumber Blossoms

By FOSTER H. WEISS

(Head of the Vegetable Garden Dept., Norfolk County Agricultural School, and Director of the Boston Record-American Sunday Advertiser Garden on the Common)

Tomato plants now are beginning to thicken, especially those that are staked, and it would be well for gardeners who have tied their tomatoes to stakes to check the lower strings, to see if they are too tight.

I have seen some plants choked by the lower tie because the stems had grown so fast.

Cucumbers are now beginning to bloom and the old question comes up as to whether the first blossoms should be picked off. The answer is NO. These first blossoms are the male blossoms and must be open and ready so that insects can work to pollinate the female blossoms when they appear, which will be soon. This same factor holds true with all vine crops.

Tomatoes may have been carefully pruned, but you will find that with some varieties the shoots will again start up from the base of the plant. Take these shoots off before they get too large or they will weaken the plant.

If the second and third cluster of fruit is starting to set on tomatoes it will be wise to give them another light application of complete fertilizer.

A NATIONAL DISGRACE

TRANSPORTATION OF thousands of American soldiers, veterans of the European War, across the country under little better than "cattle car" conditions is deplored and denounced by all Americans appreciative of the heroic services and extreme sacrifices of these valiant men.

These are the sons and brothers, fathers and husbands, whom the people of the United States have waited so long and anxiously to WELCOME HOME.

They are veterans of every campaign since the storming of Morocco and Algeria.

They fought across North Africa to Bizerte.

They made the conquest of Sicily.

They conducted the weary and bloody campaign in Italy from the Anzio beachhead to the final clearing of the Po Valley.

They poured onto the Normandy shore.

They made the break-through at St. Lo.

They took the brunt of the final thrust of German power in the Battle of the Belgian Bulge.

They crushed the Siegfried Line.

They swept across the Remagen Bridge to the Elbe and Victory.

All of these decisive actions were fought at the risk of every American life concerned, and at the COST of thousands of American lives.

THESE AMERICAN BOYS now arriving home and proceeding across the country, most of them to fight in the Pacific War, have been met in our Atlantic ports by cheering throngs and stirring music—attesting the great appreciation and affection of the country which they have served so well.

They are entitled to ALL their country can do for their comfort and pleasure, the very BEST it can do for them—not as their mere reward, but as their inviolable RIGHT.

BUT INSTEAD, WITH THE CHEERS AND MUSIC STILL RINGING IN THEIR EARS, THEY HAVE BEEN HERDED INTO DIRTY, STIFLING RAILROAD CARS —NOT PULLMANS—FOR THEIR WEEK-LONG JOURNEY ACROSS THE COUNTRY TO ANOTHER WAR.

They sat three in a seat in these filthy cars, and in the aisles.

They had to beat the dust and grime out of the cushions and upholstery.

There was no water in some of the cars, not even toilet facilities in many of them.

It can well be imagined in what discomfort, and even distress, this transcontinental journey has been made by these thousands of American soldiers—in the blistering midsummer temperatures of the American Middlewest.

WHAT A TRAVESTY THIS IS ON OUR NATIONAL SENSE OF DUTY.

WHAT A MOCKERY OF OUR NATIONAL EXPRESSIONS OF PRIDE AND APPRECIATION AND AFFECTION!

WHAT DISGRACE AND SHAME IT REFLECTS UPON THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AS A WHOLE!

RESPONSIBLE AUTHORITIES have pleaded many excuses for this shameful situation.

None is acceptable.

The situation itself is shockingly real, and is admitted.

It is inexcusable. It is intolerable.

America's fighting sons DESERVE the best, and they should have it.

The American people are thoroughly ASHAMED, and they should be.

For what is past and done, however shamefully done, there is little cure.

But in the future, and beginning NOW, our national sense of indignation and outrage should compel the diversion of sufficient sleeping car equipment—clean and comfortable and air-conditioned, and without congestion—to the proper transportation of American troops within the limits of their own country.

On the Side — By E. V. Durling

She that would gain a constant lover,
Must at a distance keep the slave,
Not by a look her heart discover,
Men should guess the thoughts we have.
While in doubt their flame increases,
And all attendance they will pay:
When we're possessed their transport ceases,
And vows, like vapors, fleet away.

—APHRA BEHN.

AUTHOR OF the above was a 17th Century beauty who was quite a heart breaker. In addition to her notable literary career she served her country as an international spy. She was honored by burial in Westminster Abbey . . . An elderly contemporary speaks somewhat disparagingly of the "modern wife and mother." He says, for example, the modern wife is helpless in the "emergency of minor illness." That she cannot handle the first aid situation as the old-fashioned wife and mother did. This claim is strictly the bunk. The present day wife is as equal to the aforementioned emergency as her mother and grandmother were. Thousands of husbands will back me up in this. My own wife is a genius at first aid. She not only skilfully handles the problems of the human members of the family but goes to work quickly on the pup when he is ailing. One time the dog had a bad cold. He was suffering from a chill. My girl friend gave him a slug of rye, a couple of aspirin tablets, rubbed his chest with mentholatum, wrapped him in a couple of blankets. The next morning he was cured and as lively as ever.

ALMOST CONFIDENTIAL: A New Yorker says in November, 1944, she required a size 46 dress. Then under her physician's care she began to reduce. Now she has lost 85 pounds and instead of a size 46 wears a size 16 . . . "So Joe Bonomo thinks it quite a feat of strength to tear a telephone book in two with his bare hands!" writes a Detroiter. "Don Vassel of Detroit, 16 years of age, weighing 112 pounds, can with his bare hands tear a Detroit telephone book into four pieces" . . . A young woman of Manhattan concludes a communication to this department with the following description of herself: "I am a tall skinny brunette with green eyes and a terrible disposition. (Note—I'll bet she is really a nice girl. Put a little weight on her by feeding her malted milks and her figure and disposition would undoubtedly improve to the point where she might be as pretty as Linda Darnell and make a nice wife for some deserving young man.)

SOMETHING NEW: Perhaps the man who said "there is nothing new under the sun" was right, but I am always coming upon things that are new to me. For example, did you ever hear of a poultry dealer "watering a chicken." It has been done. Recently apprehended by the authorities was a dealer who has been injecting water into dead chickens to increase their weight and enable him to sell the bird at a much higher price. I wonder how a housewife could tell if a chicken had been "watered." That's something we will have to take up immediately with the chicken experts. Our housewife subscribers must be protected. Maybe I will start a campaign for the home managers using the slogan: "Ed Durling, the Housewife's Friend." Anyway, if you know of any "tricks of the trade" that are being used to cheat innocent young housewives, let us know.

QUERIES FROM CLIENTS: Q—I understand you made the ridiculous claim that "Babe" Herman once batted for Ty Cobb. In the first place they never played on the same team. In the second place no manager in his right mind would make that substitution. A—Don't get excited, Mister. I still have it in my memory that "Babe" Herman was with Detroit for a time. Also, that he once batted for Ty Cobb. If I am wrong the stogie is yours . . . Q I challenge you to name six popular "advertising songs." A So you challenge me, do you? Well, I'm not too proud to fight even if I lose. I can only think of five: "Budweiser's a Friend of Mine," "Under the Anheuser Busch," "In My Merry Oldsmobile," "Take Me on a Buick Honeymoon" and "That Wrigley Girl With the Spearmint Eyes."

"Wow! What a narrow escape!"

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

Copyright, 1945, by King Features Synd., Inc

NEW YORK, July 13—Among my occasional reading these last few years is a book by Judge Ferdinand Pecora, of the New York County Supreme Court, who served as counsel to the Senate banking and currency investigation of 1933-34.

This concerned quaint practices of stock exchanges and banks.

Westbrook Pegler

It was souped up by the early enthusiasts of the New Deal press who delighted in the humbling of J. P. Morgan, who was tricked into dandling on his knee a circus midget whom he mistook for a little girl.

However, it was an effective expose, and contributed to some honest reforms which the Roosevelt Administration achieved in its early days.

It occurs to me that in some way the situation which Judge Pecora investigated was similar to the alleged operations of Elliott Roosevelt thus far disclosed in borrowing money on "unbankable" securities.

Judge Pecora described the great financial power of J. P. Morgan and Company and its favoritism toward a great financial coterie of other bankers.

★ ★ ★

"MR. MORGAN saw no impropriety or disadvantage in this," he wrote, "nor did he respond favorably to the suggestion that J. P. Morgan and Company might, by putting all these powerful and strategically situated men in their debt, place itself in a position to obtain, in return, special favors from the banks and corporations they represented."

Later, discussing the "spread" or commissions paid in the issuance of bonds by borrowing companies, Judge Pecora explained that "when a corporation issues $100,000,000 of bonds it does not actually receive the full $100,000,000.

"The long-suffering public pays the entire accumulated load of commissions, profits, 'finders fees' (to persons who have helped bring us the business in the first place)."

If there is an analogy here it is in reverse but to me, the moral position of Elliott and, later, of Jesse Jones, the chairman of the Relief Finance Corporation, described by Henry Wallace as "the most tremendous financial power that the world has ever seen," seems hardly better than that of the financiers against whom Pecora waged crusade.

★ ★ ★

WHERE PECORA speaks of the Morgan firm's placing other giants in debt and itself in a position to obtain special favors, I try to picture the mental attitude of a big business man under government fire or threatened with government trouble, when a son and a brother-in-law of the President approach him for a big loan.

I believe the business man would say to himself that this might be a way out of some existing trouble with the Administration or a way to head off future trouble.

Pecora condemned this equation which he describes in the banking business. The New Deal, then just beginning its rule with high moral professions, was equally scornful.

We do not yet know the full story of the financial operations of a number of members of the Roosevelt family but one easily recalls how joyously the New Deal group celebrated the personal embarrassment of many individuals when the President, by executive order, produced for public inspection their personal tax returns.

Pecora disapproved the payment of "finders' " fees to men who dug up money for borrowers but Hall Roosevelt and William Sirovich, a New Deal Congressman, in assisting in a $200,000 loan for Elliott which Jones settled for $4000, were, in a sense, "finders" for Elliott.

★ ★ ★

THERE MAY BE a key to the situation in an incident in May, 1943, when President Roosevelt denounced an American group for lending several million dollars to Bolivia at 8 per cent interest, minus a finder's fee of 8 per cent.

Bolivia defaulted the loan and Mr. Roosevelt revealed his point of view when he apologized to the President of Bolivia.

In other words, he had congratulated a defaulter but on the ground that the American financiers had used high pressure to sell Bolivia a loan which the country did not need.

In Elliott's case, the high pressure seems to have come from the borrower more, apparently, than from the lender, although, to return to the Pecora theme, the lender may have felt he was placing "powerful and strategically situated men in their debt."

Hollywood Today

By Louella O. Parsons

HOLLYWOOD, July 13—Well, I always say you can't keep a good man down! Al Jolson, who was so near to death last year and who many people felt would never sing and dance before the footlights again, has just signed one of the most exciting contracts of his entire theatrical career.

Al Jolson

He will be starred in Mike Todd's musical based on the life of Stephen Foster.

The dynamic Mr. Todd has the most lavish plans for Al's show, which he will call "Oh, Susanna." It's to be real Americana—a minstrel with Al as interlocutor. Jolson will sing all those tuneful Foster melodies, "My Old Kentucky Home," "Suwannee River" and "Old Black Joe." Before he goes back to Broadway, however, he will see that his life story at Columbia Studios gets going.

★ ★ ★

MARILYN MAXWELL, the blonde lovely at M-G-M who reminds you a bit of Betty Grable, is going to be given the Broadway build-up before she is launched as a star on her home lot. The studio is convinced they've "got something" in Marilyn. But just by way of a high polish job, she is leaving immediately for New York to start rehearsing for "Nellie Bly," the musical Eddie Cantor and Nat Carson are producing. She sings and dances beautifully—and if the show is a hit, it will enhance her box office value to the movies 100 per cent. She'll remain in the east for the Broadway run. Then, hot or cold, she returns for a starring role in an M-G-M musical.

MARY ANITA LOOS, who will one of these days equal her famous Aunt Anita's record as an author, has just sold a comedy to Paramount for Eddie Bracken. Mary Anita collaborated with Richard Sales, brilliant young author, on the comedy. He's the tall, blond young man who has accompanied Mary Anita to various Hollywood parties—very attractive and very nice. P. S. The authors were paid an excellent price.

FOR THE LAST few days Errol Flynn has been running a very high temperature. He had a recurrence of undulant fever, a serious malady caused by drinking milk that had not been pasteurized. He had the first attack several years ago on location and it recurs regularly. Both Nora Eddington, who has been at his bedside every day, and Lili Damita, who has been calling regularly, are urging him to see the best medical aid in the country. This type of disease is difficult to cure. Lili's been offered a movie job, but she's turned it down. She has bought a house here and says she's in Hollywood to live and bring up her son.

CHATTER IN HOLLYWOOD: Charles Coburn is driving everyone on the set of "Shady Lady" completely wacky at "U." The cute and cuddlesome elderly delinquent is dead set and determined to buy himself a baseball club—of all things! All day long the set is overrun with club owners, ex-managers, former and current baseball players and tipsters who are helping Charlie shop around for his club. Frankly, he wants a West Coast club and is willing to pay big for one. But even with all the excitement, he wistfully says that all he has, so far, is a mascot—Martha O'Driscoll.

A LINE OR TWO: I Beg Pardon Department: It was not a New York cop who turned Lepke over to Walter Winchell. Lepke himself surrendered in one of Walter's greatest coups in his or any other newspaper career . . . Helmut Dantine has been working hard on the V. A. C.'s play, "To Hell We March," which opens July 18. The proceeds all go to finance telephone calls for returning convalescent soldiers a really fine cause. Marge Hall, president of the V. A. C., is the busiest gal in ten counties getting out letters and selling tickets. She should be in the publicity business . . . "Why Was I Born," becomes "The Man I Love," all because Warners own the rights to the latter song. Director Raoul Walsh did the christening act . . . Bing Crosby has just made a wonderful gesture, I think, in putting "Eli Eli" and "Kol Nidre," Jewish chants, on records and giving the proceeds to Jewish charities.

★ ★ ★

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD COLLECTED AT RANDOM: Dick Foran has taken his two boys back East to his father's home. They were with their stepmother, Carol Gallagher, even after she and Dick separated; Com. Harold Stassen spoke informally at the reception given in his honor and it was very interesting. He answered questions about the new charter, which I know I was glad to have explained. Mrs. Earl Warren, wife of our Governor, and Robert Montgomery received with Stassen, who has an enormous following in Hollywood. It was really a non-partisan gathering with such out and out Democrats as Joan Bennett, Walter Wanger and Jimmie Cagney in attendance; Bob Hutton is still living in the same house with his estranged wife. Reason, he says, is that he can't find a place to live.

ENID MARKEY, who has just staged a return to movies, has received word that her husband, Maj. George Cobb, is very sick in a New York hospital; Danny Kaye went backstage at Slapsy Maxie's and gave George and Gene Bernard a few tips on imitating him. Well Danny should know how it's done; I am glad to say Susan Peters is well enough to sit up every day; Madman Muntz had Joseph W. Frazer, auto magnate, cornered at the Conrad Hilton cocktail party for the longest time; John Carroll hosted Dr. Margaret Chung, noted woman doctor from San Francisco, at Ciro's. Dr. Chung was also at the Stassen reception; is it romance with Lois Andrews, George Jessel's ex, and David Street, radio crooner? That's all today. See you tomorrow!

One of the strange by-products of the current newspaper delivery strike can be seen at the beaches these week - ends. Leon & Eddie's, ever enterprising, has hired a half dozen beautiful babes to lie in the sun with tape letters reading "World Famous Leon and Eddie's" across their bare backs. When they tan, the tapes will come off and they'll stroll as ambulatory ads . . . Maj. Henry Plitt, who captured Nazi war criminal Juluis Streicher, is expected to arrive in the U. I'D LOVE to do a musical comedy with Mayor LaGuardia as the central character. His mike mugging and Sunday sermons would be priceless as a footlight routine, and wouldn't it be fun to make the ingenue his (fictional) daughter who elopes with a race track tout?

THE MOST technicolor dish in town is green spaghetti with pink shrimps, chartreuse curry sauce and ripe red tomatoes at the Coq Rouge. Gives you technicolor nightmares, too, I presume . . . He snubbed the other performers and didn't waste much time mingling with the GI's . . . Jack Kramer of the St. Louis Browns eloped with vocalist Dorothy Dobson in St. Louis the other day. WASHINGTON, July 13—The matter of which uniform our Navy officers will wear these torrid days, or how much of any given uniform, has become pretty haphazard here in Washington.

Generally speaking, the day's garb is decreed by the various bureau commanders in an order of the day. The bossman instructs his subordinates whether they wear khaki or whites, and whether they can parade the streets of our fair city without coats.

While the order is usually pretty clear as to what the well-dressed sailor will wear on the street—although frequently the officers are ordered to carry raincoats when its shining and go without them when it's raining—the business of how they shall be appareled in their sanctums and at mess is often badly gummed up.

But the place where it has become absolutely bewildering is the officers' mess hall at the Washington Navy Yard.

The goldbraid boys were given to understand it would be all right to guzzle their comestibles coatless, providing no superior officer objected. As you can appreciate, that is pretty vague and indefinite.

The other day a crew of young officers were eating there sans coats when the wife of a captain sailed in. The stalwart lady surveyed the shirt-sleeved brigade and shuddered to her marrow, which is roughly four points off the starboard bow.

She complained to her husband—with the result that a new and even more baffling order was issued.

This order—May the saints preserve our Navy's sanity! - was that the officers were to wear whatever their superior officer happened to be wearing!

★ ★ ★

YOU KNOW what developed. The poor junior officers began wearing the springs out of their legs popping up and down like Jack-in-the-boxes. It was like this:

A lieutenant (j.g) came in and took a quick gander around. The only superior officer wolfing his chow was a full lieutenant. He was coatless—so the j.g. promptly whipped off his coat.

A few minutes later in came a lieutenant commander, coat on. All the lesser lads leaped to their feet and struggled into their tunics.

Then came a commander, coatless. Everybody up again and coats off. Then a captain, with coat—then a commodore, coatless—then a rear admiral—and all the coats went on again.

★ ★ ★

ONE YOUNG lieutenant of my acquaintance said he had to don and doff his coat six times while trying to masticate a single lunch.

"I was all worn out," he complained, "and it did horrible things to my digestion. We have only a limited time to eat as it is.

"Two lieutenant commanders came in together. One was coatless, one wasn't. We almost went nuts trying to decide which to emulate."

"Well—what did you do?" I asked.

"Me? I put on my coat to please one lieutenant commander and then took it off again to appease the other. I know better than to play favorites."

This fellow said it is really quite a sight to watch the junior officers eyeing the door to see what each superior officer is wearing. He said he is trying to arrange his luncheon hour to coincide with the admiral's so he won't have to keep performing like a quick-change comedian.

TOMORROW (July 14) the revered senior Senator from Kansas, Arthur Capper, will have attained four score years. For the benefit of Mr. Jack Lait and others who have no truck with things poetic, this means he'll be 80 years old.

For 38 years Senator Capper has celebrated his natal day (birthday, Mr. Lait, birthday) by throwing a picnic for the children of Shawnee County, Kansas. He said he might have to pass it up this year because of impending committee consideration of the Sar Francisco charter.

Just to give you a better idea of Senator Capper's age, he was born just three months after Lee surrendered at Appomattox. But if you happen to be a good-looking doll, you'd never guess it—about Lee's surrender, I mean.

A STORY being widely circulated around the State Department is that an automobile company agent, wishing to do business in Argentina, tried to give a free car to one of the country's highest officials. With a great show of righteousness, the official replied he couldn't accept gifts. The agent then suggested he buy a car, but at a discount.

The official said that would be all right, and in keeping with his high oath of office. The next day he appeared at the automobile salesroom. He picked out the costliest car on the floor and asked the price—with discount. Very deadpanned, the agent replied:

"Fifty pesos."

"Oh, in that case," said the big Argentinian, "I'll take two!"

Boston After Dark

THE BOSTON ODT OFFICE learned of the edict banning transportation of race-horses and greyhounds from the newspapers . . . The new ruling was transmitted from Washington to Boston via New York, hence the tardiness in the official message's receipt . . . Horse owners, incidentally, are worried about the possible effect of the no-travel ruling on the value of their steeds.

★ ★ ★

THESE VALUES admittedly have been a bit inflationary of late . . . Horses which ran last year in $1000 races are now racing for $3500 and upwards . . . But if the ODT edict prohibiting the vanning or railroading of thoroughbreds from one track to another remains effective through the winter, Florida's and other southern tracks will be without entries, and horses will be merely hay-consumers and non-producers.

★ ★ ★

PERSONS CLOSE to the Truman administration say that the President and his new Secretary of the Treasury Fred Vinson are of one mind in lacking sympathy for the horse-betting splurge now gripping the country . . . "Kings of the Ring," a movie picture soon to play the old Howard, was shown privately at the Bradford after a luncheon to the press and Boston boxers . . . Johnny Wilson was the only Boston former title-holder present.

★ ★ ★

ELAINE JORDAN at the Mayfair is excellent . . . So it's Len Russ' band at the Fox and Hounds . . . It's a four-piece combination, but Russ and his mates are so far above the average so-called "substitute" band that customers are getting more than a usual share of good dancing . . . The main band at the Fox and Hounds is Wilson Lewis' fine crew . . . Harry Richman is a definite booking for the Bradford Roof, and Jackie Miles has been hired for a return engagement (in November).

★ ★ ★

ADRIEL BIRD, the coffee distributor, is home from a fishing trip to Canada . . . Adriel hooked 75 salmon, and brought the entire catch back with him . . . Allan Wilson, president of Suffolk Downs, has an interesting gallery of close finishes of races in which the camera was unable (seemingly) to separate the contestants, leaving the job completely to the placing judges . . . But this department persists in its expressed opinion that Kengar, in the fourth race Wednesday, was clearly the winner over Adviser . . . The placing judges at Suffolk called it a dead heat.

★ ★ ★

REPORTS FROM Chicago have it that Antoinette Cavaretta Nitti, one time secretary of the slain Eddie O'Hare when the St. Louis man was boss of Dighton dog track, and later the wife (and now the widow) of Frank Nitti, of the oldtime Capone mob, is the mistress of at least $10,000,000 left by her husband, who committed suicide . . . When Postmaster General Hannegan comes here in September for a testimonial dinner at the Boston Garden, he probably will renew acquaintance with friends from Bristol County—whom he met when acting as the lamented Mr. O'Hare's counsel and personal adviser.

SPEAKING of Bristol County, Charlie Martin, brother of Congressman Joe Martin, has bought another newspaper . . . It's the Franklin (Norfolk County) Sentinel, a weekly . . . After the war, Publisher Martin says he plans to make the sheet a daily . . . His North Attleboro paper comes out six days a week . . . Vernon Duke's song "I Worship You," from the show "Fifty Million Frenchmen," is being plugged into a revival of popularity.

DOMESTIC SCOTCH is being pushed in many of the night clubs. One of the domestic brands is potable, and not too far off the Scotch taste achieved by the standard blends from the British Isles . . . England must be millions of gallons of Scotch behind her prewar output . . . Many home-coming vessels are sailing without westbound cargoes and Scotch would be as profitable a cargo as any in the current shortage . . . Frank Coyne, the former representative from Dorchester, will launch a campaign for re-election by plunking for the $300-top bonus for veterans.

ONE OF the lesser known services of the Red Cross Gray Ladies is the special committee of 11 women, who under direction of Mrs. Hugh Jones of Belmont, make a weekly visit to the Long Island Hospital branch of Boston City Hospital.

Many girls and matrons are devoting their summer vacations to help ease the shortage of nurses throughout the hospitals. The Red Cross hopes to recruit more people for a special short course given by the Hospital Recreation Corps to train an emergency unit to do limited ward service in civilian hospitals.

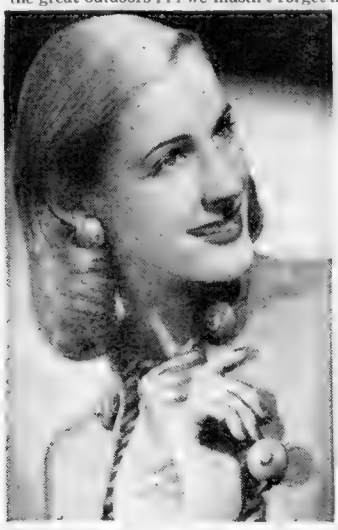
Grand Gift for Your Hostess

By RUTH MUGGLEBEE, Beauty and Fashion Editor

WITH WEEK-END visits "the thing" this year more than ever . . . hostess gifts become an important item on a glamor gal's schedule. Going here and there in full regalia . . . in summertime glorification of the great outdoors . . . we mustn't forget the little lady who makes those Friday to Monday stretches the pleasurable excursions they are.



YOU WON'T have to play the game of "button, button who has the button" in trying to find a suitable thank-you gift for your hostess' hospitality after a pleasurable week-end . . . if you just remember her with a rose-and-spice toilet water or dusting powder . . . that is as charming for her kindness as it is for your glamor.

You'll make capital of your friends this season . . . and more week-end visits will be chalked up then you ever dreamed of. That's because so many service men are coming back from Europe and the ODT tells us that travel space is at a minimum. But having warm-weather fun doesn't entail long journeys. A few miles to your friend's house at the beach can prove to be the center of gaiety within your own circle.

But while you're showing yourself in smart seagoing togs . . . don't forget the remembrance for your hostess. And what could be more suitable for her . . . as for you when you dress up . . . than a personal bit of fragrance . . . one which express her feminity? Busy women like the refreshing roses and spice scent of an old-time favorite.

ROSES AND SPICE

Even the containers themselves . . . gaily decorated in charming motifs against a cream background . . . add a festive note to the dressing table or bathroom shelf. These packages . . . authentic adaptations of things long ago . . . are particularly suited to a room with early living decor. This spicy toilet water will refresh your hostess during her busy summer days . . . especially if she is the one who does the cooking and makes arrangements for the glad hours at your disposal.

So let its long-lasting fragrance of roses and spice surround her in an aura of romantic loveliness. Or remember her with a box of silky dusting powder in the same scent . . . to help keep her feeling cool during the dog days of the coming month. This fragrance is just as grand for your hostess as it is for you . . . if you like the fresh reminder of the outdoors.

SHOW APPRECIATION

Because you are patriotic in not traveling to far-off summer resorts . . . you'll certainly appreciate your friend's hospitality. So remember her with this tangible "bread-and-butter" note of niceness. If your own back yard will be your playground . . . and it will be for many, many people . . . give yourself a treat with these feminine fragranced fancies.

For the name of these scented items, phone the Beauty Dept., LIBerty 4000, or write me, care of the Boston Evening American, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

My Day

By Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, Thursday. The students of the Central High School in North Salem, N. Y., undertook a project two years ago which brought to light many interesting historical facts about their own town. Their published booklet was of such interest that ensuing classes have gathered more material and the older people in the community became interested enough to bring out a bound book this year.

In the introduction the story is told of how the book came about, and I am mentioning it here because I think it may be of interest to other schools in various parts of the country to undertake similar studies.

There are a great many by-products of this book for the youngsters, but perhaps the most important thing about it is that history suddenly lives for a great many young people. If you can make history come alive in one place, it is apt to affect the viewpoint of students in the whole general study of history.

* * *

ONE OF THE DIFFICULTIES about our high school education, I find, is that certain boys and girls are not always interested in the way their subjects are presented. Many of our teachers have not had the experience or perhaps the background which makes it possible for them to approach a given subject in a variety of ways. One of the easiest ways to awaken interest is to give young people a conception of their responsibility to find ways themselves of making a subject interesting.

For instance, not long ago in visiting a high school I found that during the lunch period, when the librarian obviously had to go to lunch herself, the library was locked. It occurred to me at the time that it would have added stimulus to some youngsters' courses if, two by two, they had been assigned to duty in the library during that hour.

Their obligation might have been to arouse the interest of certain groups among their fellow students in some of the books that would be of value in adding color and background to their required courses.

* * *

I REMEMBER what stimulus was given to our own local history in this section of the country when a group of college students one year dramatized some of Carl Carmer's historical studies of the Hudson river valley, and gave them for different groups in our county.

GIFTS TO ATTENDANTS—There is no rule as to when the bride gives her gifts to the bridal attendants. She may give them to the girls at a party, at the time of the wedding rehearsal or when all have assembled just before the wedding. Jewelry and costume jewelry are the usual presents but any article within the bride's means is correct.

New Type in Wrap-Around

By BETTINA BEDWELL

THE WRAP-AROUND dress has been one of the biggest fashions for months. Most familiar example of this kind of thing is the sarong dress, or skirt and waist, which comes in all kinds of models.

The wrap-around closing is so convenient for warm weather when you hate the fuss and bother of more formal closings, it is likely to go on for a long time in the styles.

Today, I want to tell you about a new type of wrap-around dress, one which women who can't wear the form-displaying sarong type will welcome. It comes from Zoe De Salle and is sketched. This clever designer wraps the skirt over in front under box pleats to the right side, so it is graceful and flowing, and very easy to wear. Made of pure silk deep pine green crepe, the waist has push-up sleeves and closes diagonally from the neck.

Appetizing Menu For Real Hot Days

By MARTHA LEE

"IT'S NOT the heat, it's the humidity" is the old refrain of July and August days.

Appetites are in for their annual sleighride, with the "I'm-just-not-hungry" complaint ever present. And meal planners are already tearing their hair trying to find ways of kindling the tiniest sparks of interest in food.

Homemakers will do well to follow the tried and true pattern for summer eating—soup, salad and dessert. It always seems to work.

An appetizing soup cold and jellied ones like Vichyssoise, Russian borsch and Madriline are lots easier to make than they sound; a wholesome, hearty salad with a good dressing (salad combinations and dressings are limited only by imagination), and a bang-up dessert—the old favorites and then some of the new ones that are run across almost every day.

Why not try this menu to start you off on the road to simplified meal planning:

MENU

Jellied Consomme
Cooked Vegetable Salad
French Dressing
Cheese Biscuits
Molasses Peach Shortcake

JELLIED CONSOMME

Soften 2 tablespoons granulated gelatin in ½ cup cold consomme or water. Add hot consomme and stir until gelatin is dissolved. Chill until set. Just before serving, beat with a fork and serve in bouillon cups. Garnish with sliced lemon. Canned consomme may be purchased. If it is to be served cold, put can in refrigerator several hours or overnight to thoroughly chill contents before serving.

CHEESE BISCUITS

2 cups sifted flour
3 tsp. baking powder
½ tsp. salt
¼ tbsp. shortening
½ cup grated cheese
⅔ cup milk (about)

Mix and sift dry ingredients. Cut in shortening and cheese with pastry blender or with 2 knives until the consistency of coarse cornmeal. Stir in milk to make a smooth dough. Turn out on slightly floured board, knead ½ minute, and roll lightly to thickness of ½ inch. Cut in 2-inch rounds with floured cutter. Bake on ungreased sheet in a hot oven (450 deg. F.) 12 to 15 minutes. Makes 11 to 16 biscuits.

COOKED VEGETABLE SALAD

Any cooked vegetable, such as peas, lima beans, shredded string beans, carrots, beets, or cauliflower may be combined with well seasoned French dressing and allowed to marinate in it for half an hour or more before serving. Minced onion may be mixed with the vegetables. Serve on a bed of lettuce leaves or shredded lettuce, or in lettuce cups on a platter, or in individual portions. Mayonnaise or salad dressing may be passed or used as a garnish, or the salad may be sprinkled with shredded or grated cheese.

MOLASSES PEACH SHORTCAKE

1½ cups flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. ginger ¼ tsp. cinnamon
½ tsp. salt ½ tsp. soda
1 tbsp. shortening 1 egg
½ cup molasses ½ cup sugar
½ cup boiling water

Sift together first 6 ingredients. Cream shortening, add sugar gradually, then beaten egg and molasses. Add dry ingredients; mix thoroughly. Lastly, add boiling water. Beat well. Pour into 2 greased layer cake tins. Bake in oven (350 deg. F.) 20 to 30 minutes. While slightly warm, put sweetened whipped cream and sliced peaches between layers and on top. Serve at once.

'Nob Hill' in Color at Met

By PEGGY DOYLE

The old familiar story of the Barbary Coast and Nob Hill and how never the twain shall meet is presently being retold on the Metropolitan screen. This time it is decked out in bright Technicolor and 20th Century-Fox's inevitably sumptuous musical treatment.

"Nob Hill" is the title of the costly production, which stars George Raft, Joan Bennett, Vivian Blaine and Peggy Ann Garner.

Raft plays a carbon-copy Barbary Coast saloon operator, whose heart is as golden as his hair is patent-leather black. Life is lusty but loving is serene . . . until Miss Bennett, making not too convincingly like a Nob Hill society girl, goes questing for thrills along the sin-embroidered Coast.

The patrician and fair-haired Vivian Blaine, who is the star entertainer at Raft's gaudy drink emporium, loves and is beloved by Raft until little Missy Garner introduces the butterfly into the ointment.

Peggy Ann, with a brogue you could cut with a knife and a wistfulness that rates her the season's mythical if questionable tear-jerker award, shared the sunshine of the snazzy Miss Bennett's smile on the ship over from Perth or wherever.

Miss Bennett's forthright wooing of Raft and his reluctant but eventually ardent response take up a good part of the footage.

None of these brightly Technicolorful characters ever persuade you for an instant that this is not a movie, although Miss Blaine's vocalizing of the McHugh-Adamson tunes adds up to pleasing movie entertainment. Not as pretty but funnier is the Bennett vs. Blaine hairpulling match.

"I Walked In," "Touring San Francisco" and "I Don't Care" are the easy-on-the-ear numbers. David Buttolph's background music is also nice listening.

Elegant Ellington at RKO

The Duke and his elegant Ellington men are making their incomparable kind of music at the RKO Boston that paints blue skies and develops a mood that is anything but indigo.

Two teams, Jessie and James a dance act, and Chuck and Chuckles, a Buck and Bubbles combination, made individual hits on the bill. Jessie and James are better than the Barry Brothers. Sensational is the word, for want of a better one, for Chuck and Chuckles, the sepia tall-one-and-little-one who wind up the show.

Marie . . . that's all—there isn't any more name . . . was introduced by the Duke before she sang "Rocks In My Bed," with blue and comic connotations. Ray Nance, who is an act with the trumpet, tuned up with a special number, "Riffstaccato."

FREE TOURS FOR GI'S

Free sightseeing tours of Boston's historical shrines, provided by the Knights of Pythias for servicemen and women, will leave USO headquarters, 48 Boylston st., tomorrow and Sunday at 4:30 p. m.

Loew's 'Thousand and One Nights' Gorgeous Film

By MARY X. SULLIVAN

Supercolossal is the word for "A Thousand and One Nights," the glitteringly incredible production now on the Loew's State and Orpheum screens.

Practically every school child has at some time read an expurgated version. But Scheherazade never dreamed up anything like this.

It has the most dazzlingly beautiful technicolor settings, scenery and sirens you've seen in years. It has costumes that are out of this world. It has some of the fanciest talk ever authored by a $1000-a-week wage slave, relieved by some of the corniest gags in Joe Miller's joke book.

The Genii, who we were surprised to find was a seductive red-headed damsel played by Evelyn Keyes, summed it all up in one line: "Brother, is this from hunger!"

Cornel Wilde portrays Aladdin, the wandering minstrel who falls in love with a princess and finds the lamp. As such he sings several songs, which are far better than the book. Whether Mr. Wilde actually sings or not we don't know; I'tuibl played for him when he was cast as a concert pianist, and it really is rubbing it in if someone sings for him in this one. Adele Jergens as the princess is lovely to look at.

Actually, since this is a fairy tale anyhow, Columbia had every right to hoke it up to the hilt, with gin rummy games and modern slang.

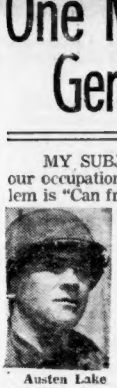
One Man's Answer to German Fraternization

By AUSTEN LAKE

MY SUBJECT IS NON-FRATERNIZATION between our occupational troops and the native Germans. The problem is "Can fraternization be made practical?"



Austen Lake

Let me dip into the old World War I album for this one! I remember our occupation of Coblentz a few weeks after the 1918 Armistice. We paraded through the broad Kaiser Ring, which in that older time was like the shop side of lower Boylston st. It was a beautiful, prosperous city then, a wine-growing metropolis with well-stocked shops, pleasant sidewalk cafes and a mania for spotless order.

There is little of that left now! For I saw Coblenz the day it was captured three months ago. Only a nest of hollow, rubbish-filled walls that stunk and smouldered, houses with frameless windows like sockets in a skull, avalanches of fallen masonry that made morbid valleys in the streets, shattered shade trees and acres of dumpland waste.

But in that late November of '18 our drums thumped, bands tootled, and candy-striped flags fluttered. The German people banked the streets, smiling and waving. It might have been a Boston Evacuation Day parade for all the spirit of animosity there was 'twixt us and them. So we settled down, charted MP patrol beats, took over the taxes, customs and civic control. We billeted the men in German houses, where famiiles still lived, and began to get acquainted.

We Left With Mutual Regrets

THERE WAS NO ORDER AGAINST "fraternization," merely that our deportment be rigidly correct and that we respect German property and personal rights. So everything was neighborly. We had plenty of German marks! They had plenty of food and beer! Nobody resented us and we fell easily into the local lingo of lifting our steins and saying "prosit," or conversing in pidgeon Deutsch. We exchanged bars of issue soap, sugar, coffee, chocolate and flavors, both real and intangible. We ogled the frauleins, who ogled right back, and patted the flaxen-haired kids, and ate Sunday schnitzel with Herr Rumplepuss. Everything got to be mutually hotsy. Some of our guys even married the gals.

When finally we left, we did so with universal regret. The people flaunted U. S. flags and called "Auf Weidersehn." The German brides blew tearful kisses to their dogface husbands. The tow-haired kids trotted beside the platoon guidons and our bands gave gay farewell snorts. As an occupation it was voted a grand success by both sides and we departed with the virtuous glow of having converted the heathen to international good-will. Now, we said, there will never, never be any more war!

But there was! Later history shows that these same jolly Herrenvolk promptly snapped back into national character. When another war came they shed their benign skins and resumed shaggy ferocity. They yielded their souls to martial leadership like a drunkard goes for his bottle. Oh, they were sincere enough in their cordiality toward us! But they were just as sincere in their devotion to the war-Fuehrer!

Understand! It would not have made one iota of difference if we of that old occupation had kicked 'em or kissed 'em. Even if we'd strode around the lime-tree park, called the Schloss, razzing the pink-cheeked maedchen who wooed us with their eyes, booted the tow-haired kids in their skivvies and shoved the men in the gutters. Even if we'd isolated ourselves surlily and treated 'em like lepers. It wouldn't have made any difference. The German people would still have clicked their boot-heels and gone to war docilely and obediently when a new German political order reared its military horns. And they still will!

Today our occupation troops can treat the German residents kindly or brutally and, when a later Reich regime rises to call them to the colors, they'll react just as severely—be the new Fuehrer's name Johan Schmidt or Erik von Bratwurst. That is their inherent training and national reflex.

They're Just the Same Today

FROM THE MOMENT THAT WE of this war invaded German soil—and I saw it at the flaming tip of the Fourth Armored spearhead, they lined the streets with shining faces and smile dimpled cheeks. They were sincere. The war was over! Let's forget about it, pals! Occasionally you found some in the chaotic ruins of bomb-blasted towns who gazed reproachfully as though wondering "How could you do this to us, we who meant you no harm?" They meant it!

This time we had a rigid "non-fraternizing" order! As an eagle colonel said, "We want no dealings with the German people. They must be taught that, until they qualify again for membership in the world community, we hold them beneath contempt."

The German native today accepts, but does not understand, this attitude! He feels no war guilt! He takes no blame! Fate's roulette wheel spun that way! Better luck next time! Meanwhile, why not be chummy? It's not propaganda on his part. It's his innate fatalism plus his habitual obedience to the ruler of the moment. Americans could even recruit a good-sized German army to fight the Japs if we wanted to enforce conscription. The rank and file German is that sort of spiritual robot.

So the U. S. Occupation Command might just as well relax its "non fraternization" rules and let the U. S. soldiery have a reasonable good time. He will anyway! Like prohibition and the OPA it's an unenforceable rule. It will neither foster nor stop a future war! BUT let the U. S. Command rule German industry, politics, the underground die-hard minority, and the potential military leaders with a ruthless, iron hand, that no future politico-military regime arises from the ashes of the old. Then the robot German masses cannot click back into their old, neurotic, servile slot. If it will keep our occupation soldiery happier in their job, let 'em fraternize as long as they realize that these same fraternal folk of today are potential military homicides of tomorrow.

Ferriss Eyes 15th Win

By FRED HOEY

Baseball's gift to the kids, adults and everybody who loves and admires a clean whole-some kid, will be on exhibition this afternoon at Fenway Park when the former member of the Army Air Force, Dave "Boo" Ferriss, shoots for his 15th win against the Detroit Tigers. Opposed to Ferriss is Fred "Stubby" Overmire.

Nothing in Boston baseball's history has matched the startling effect Ferriss' approach has made on the New England populace. Coming here unheralded, without even a tryout at the Sox' Louisville farm, this 23-year phenom has reached stages of stardom unequalled in local history.

Dave Ferriss

We have had our Hugh Duffys, Duffy Lewises, Tris Speakers and Joe Woods. All came here with strong minor league buildups. Something grea' was expected of them in their local bow. But this kid Ferriss comes in, and like parachute commandos, captures Boston and New England from behind.

Ferriss has grabbed the imagination of every kid in New England. When popular Tom Hussey, who is doing a swell job, starts hog-calling over the radio today those kids will be glued to the home microphones.

Being Ladies' Day today Ferriss will receive plenty of feminine support at Fenway Park.

The Red Sox are now 5½ games away from the lead. This is a splendid spot at this stage of the race. The Sox pitchers are settling down to real control business. Before they depart for their next road trip Joe Cronin and his men should be around second or third spot.

Meanwhile the Red Sox welcomes back from the wars two splendid boys, ex-bat boys, Freddie Stack and Joe Kelly. Freddie proudly wears six battle stars from the ETO and CBI war zones. Kelly was liberated from a German prison camp by the Russians last April. Joe says he wished he had a fungo bat to swing at heads in the German prison camp

JEFF HEATH, Indians—Beat Ernie Bonham down to his eighth defeat with a three-run homer in the seventh inning of a 7-4 triumph over Yankees.

BOBO NEWSOM and JESSE FLORES, Athletics—Hurled Philadelphia to a doubleheader sweep over the Browns, 4-0 and 11-0. Newsom's four-hitter in the first tilt snapped his 12-game losing string.

JIM WILSON, Red Sox—Tamed Hal Newhouser in a mound duel and figured in both runs of Boston's 2-1 shade over Detroit.

NICK STRINCEVICH, Pirates—Shut out the Phils with five hits and lashed a bases-loaded single, batting in two runs of a 4-0 margin.

DUTCH LEONARD, Senators—Drove home two scores with a pair of singles in helping himself to his 10th victory—this one at Chicago's expense, 4-2.

DANNY GARDELLA, Giants—Doubled with two on in the tenth inning to break a 7-7 tie and assure New York of a 9-7 series opener in St. Louis.

BOW BOWMAN, Reds and GOODY ROSEN, Dodgers—Bowman tamed the Brooks in the opener, 4-3; Rosen collected Reds, 11-5.

Curt Fullerton Takes Over Navy

With Curt Fullerton, the old Red Sox chucker, assuming the managerial reins of the Navy Yard A. A., tonight's tilt that finds the sailors tackling the McCarthy Club at American Legion Plyground in East Boston will go far toward deciding how Fullerton will fare as a Park League manager.

The Navy Yarders teed off against the Linehan Club to a 16 to 1 count the other night and intend to keep their powerful attack rolling long enough to gain a few games on the league leading Caseys.

The Hicks Engineers, with the Roslindale Town Team fairly breathing on their necks as a result of a complete reversal of form in the past two weeks, will go all out to thrust the Towners deeper into their cellar position

'Kings of the Ring' Shows Champions in Battle

By JACK CONWAY

"KINGS OF the Ring," the graphic thrill story of boxing over a period of 35 years, will be shown in an absorbing movie which opens at Al Somersby's directed Old Howard Theater next Monday.

The film includes the knock-out of Bill Squires by Tommy Burns in 1907. It also depicts Jack Johnson stopping Stanley Ketchell, and later losing his world's championship to Jess Willard under a boiling sun at Havana, Cuba.

Jack Dempsey

Included in the list of champions who are featured tossing fists are Jack Dempsey, Joe Louis, Jack Sharkey, Max Schmeling, Primo Carnera, Max Baer, Jimmy Braddock, Gene Tunney, Benny Leonard, Henry Armstrong and Georges Carpentier.

Louis Firpo, Jim Maloney, Billy Conn, Tony Galento, Arturo Godoy, Lew Tendler, Ernie Schaaf and other fistic stars are also featured.

Boston and New England fans will get a particular thrill out of seeing the film of the Sharkey-Maloney bout. Sharkey won in a seven round knockout.

The Dempsey - Sharkey and Dempsey - Tunney bouts have always caused much controversy.

The Dempsey-Firpo bout was the most exciting ring contest this writer ever witnessed. Dempsey scored five knockdowns in the first round only to be dropped twice before the session ended. The second knockdown saw Firpo's mighty right driving the old Manassa Mauler through the ropes to the apron of the ring.

Dempsey was aided back into the ring by one of the judges of the bout and a newspaper reporter.

"Everything was black when I got back into the ring," said Dempsey. "I was still suffering from the force behind Firpo's wallop. I was lucky to fall under Firpo's right as I staggered around the ring. The bell then saved me.

"I should have been disqualified for being assisted back into the ring." Dempsey later told me. "Firpo was a terrific puncher, but lacked ring finish."

Dempsey knocked Firpo out in the second round when he counted with two knockdowns.

* * *

Sharkey's Costly Mistake

THE PICTURES of the Sharkey-Dempsey bout show the Boston heavyweight turning his head to protest to Referee Jack O'Sullivan against Dempsey's low punching. Dempsey was quick to take advantage of the opening. He drove a terrific left hook to the jaw which knocked Sharkey out.

Sharkey came back from the Dempsey bout to win the world's championship from Max Schmeling in their second bout. Schmeling won on a foul in their first bout. I always felt Schmeling jumped into a low body punch and claimed foul when he was hopelessly beaten.

"Kings of the Ring" shows Ernie Schaaf in his bout with Primo Carnera. Schaaf collapsed in the 13th round, and died a few days later.

Joe Louis is depicted in several bouts. He looked his best the night he knocked Max Schmeling out in two minutes. I doubt if Joe will ever regain that form. He is also unlikely to ever be as good a fighter as he was when he stopped Billy Conn in 13 rounds.

* * *

Leonard vs. Tendler

BENNY LEONARD is shown in action against Lew Tendler. In their first bout, held at Boyle's Thirty Acres in New Jersey, Tendler almost knocked Leonard out. The latter went on the defensive until the gong saved him. In the next round, Benny also boxed cautiously.

In a return bout in New York over the 15-round distance, Leonard won each of the 15 rounds.

The Old Howard is a fitting spot to show "Kings of the Ring." Most world's heavyweight boxing champions from the days of the immortal John L. Sullivan have shown at the Old Howard.

Streak Broken, Holmes Relaxes

By BILL GRIMES

CHICAGO, July 13—"Of course, I'm disappointed that Hank Wyse broke my streak," declared Tommy Holmes, who had hit safely in 37 consecutive games, "but, frankly, now that it is over, I'm just as well pleased.

"I wasn't under any great pressure until after the 34th game," continued Tommy. "Then, I started to tighten up. I tried to kid myself that I was swinging naturally but I knew that I wasn't." Probably, Tommy didn't realize it but he hasn't taken many good "cuts" at pitches since the Fourth of July.

"Now, that there isn't any consecutive hitting record weighing me down, I'm confident that I'll get going again. Confidentially, I was in a bad way mentally yesterday.

"As you know, I had hit safely in 12 straight games when we came to Wrigley Field on June 1st. But, in the game which was rained out, I went four for the old "horse-collar." However, that slip didn't go into the records for the game was called off in the first half of the 5th inning, with the Braves leading 6 to 1. The next day I got one hit, a home run off Paul Derringer, in four trips to the plate. And, in the first game, the following day, Hank Wyse stopped me, although, officially, I was charged with only two times at bat. Then, in the nightcap, Claude Passeau gave me another treatment, "3 for 0."

"Like all ball players, I have my pet and my jinx parks. Well, having made only one hit in nine times at bat during the first trip here, I was worried, particularly when I learned that Wyse and Passeau, who stopped me last month, were going to do the pitching for the Cubs.

"There must be something to my superstitions about Wrigley Field. I believed I proved that today by getting only one hit in eight times at bat. As my record stands now, I've made only two hits here in 17 trips to the plate. But, you can take it from me that now that I'm not shooting at any consecutive game marks, I'll hit at Wrigley Field from here in. Hank Wyse took care of my jinx and I'll prove it tomorrow."

Holmes had a wonderful hitting streak. With one exception, every one of the 67 hits Tommy made in the 37 games was as clean as an Elk's tooth. And, moreover, he didn't beat out any infield taps.

During his streak, Holmes went hitless only 29 times. The only pitcher that stopped him three times in one game was Bill Emmerich of the Giants, who gave him a treatment in the Polo Grounds, on Eisenhower Day. Tommy didn't hit that rainy afternoon until fifth and final time at bat when Bill Voiselle was on the mound.

Clyde King of the Dodgers, stopped Tommy three times but it required three games while in two times at bat in as many games, "Ace" Adams, Ruge Fischer, of the Giants; Whitt Wyatt, Dodgers; Paul Derringer, Cubs; Oscar Judd, Phillies, and Xavier Rescigno, Ken Gables and Art Cuccurullo, Pirates, blanked the Braves' star.

On Holmes' last time at bat in the first game yesterday, Hank Wyse's first two pitches were balls. And, believe it or not, the Cub fans booed Wyse. They didn't want to see Tommy stopped by a walk. They yelled for Wyse to get the ball in strike territory, as did Manager Charles Grimm, who bellowed from the Cub's bench, "Get that ball in there, none of that stuff."

Manager Bob Coleman will send Bob Logan after the Cubs this afternoon and the Braves will face Ray Prim, so the third game of the series will be a battle of left handers.

Logan has had a four-day rest. He should be at his best. During the tail end of the Braves home stay, Logan, who is one of the best hustlers on the roster, volunteered to pitch out of turn, in order to help out the shortage of hurlers. Logan is too old to be at his best with only two and three days off. And, from now on, he will be given four days between mound appearances.

According to the "Scuttlebutt," the Braves are angling for a couple of outstanding minor league pitchers. There isn't anything definite to announce at this time but there probably will be by the first of the week.

Bobby Zollo Meets Lou Perry Tonight

Bobby Zollo of Providence and Lou Perry of Brooklyn head the list of fistic performers on the eight-round triple header at Mechanics Hall, Worcester, tonight. It will mark the first appearance of Perry in this section.

One of the supporting eights will see two of the stiffest punchers in the ring facing each other in Spider Armstrong of Toronto and Victor Jade of Chicago.

Learn to Swim Meet Proves Real Magnet

The Wm. R. Hearst "Learn to Swim" meet which will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Tufts sq. pool in Medford promises to be one of the best of the season.

The championship meet under the sponsorship of the Record-American and Medford Youth Commission already has several of the outstanding swimming clubs entered. Latest club to enter is the Olneyville Swimming Club.

Outstanding performer of this team is Clara Lamore who will compete in both women's championship races. She will race in the New England senior 220 freestyle and the Mass. State 110 yards backstroke.

Louise Sherlock is another Olneyville girl who will race in the 220.

In the men's championship races Harold Miroff and Harold Anderson have entered the men's senior 220 yards freestyle; while Alan Willoughby and Joe Watsbrough will compete in the 110 freestyle open.

New York Angler Gets 515-Pound Record Broadbill

NEW YORK, July 13 (AP)—Hans Hinrichs of New York established a U. S. Atlantic Ocean fishing record when he landed a 515-pound broadbill swordfish July 3 after a three hour and 40 minute battle, it became known today.

Hinrichs got his strike 22 miles out in the Atlantic Ocean from Shinnecock Inlet, near Hampton Bays on Long Island.

The fish, first of its kind known to be taken on a rod and reel off Long Island this season, measured 10 feet 8½ inches in length and had a girth of four feet, nine inches.

Hinrichs had his reel with 800 yards of 24-thread line at the time of the strike and scored another first when his prize was brought to Hampton Bays through the inlet an ocean gateway created by the 1938 hurricane.

Majors Dodge Series Question

WASHINGTON, July 13 (AP)—Now that Happy Chandler is boss beyond all question, the next major question confronting baseball is whether the world series will be played.

Major league clubowners did not discuss the 1945 series yesterday as they approved unanimously Chandler's seven-year, $50,000 a year contract and almost everything else he requested.

Unofficially there was strong sentiment at the joint meeting in favor of holding the October classic if at all possible under transportation conditions at that Landis time.

By not bringing the series question up formally, the club-owners indicated they thought it wiser to hold the matter in abeyance until later in the season, hoping that war developments might provide a favorable answer.

Chandler came out of his first session with the 16 men who hired him in a much stronger position than when he walked into the meeting room one hour and 45 minutes earlier.

Chandler's authority over the game will be virtually the same as that held by the late Judge
